Reason for Retirement:

Following the obsolescence of various PCB components used in the build of the MKI Precision Altimeter range, the boards have been redesigned. The new boards allow software selectable configuration flexibility and a wider range of operational and output modes.

Replacement Product:

MKII Precision Altimeters have the identical physical dimensions and similar connection options as the MKI range and are available as a direct replacement for the older units. For details of any changes to operational performance and the new features available please refer to the Product Datasheet available on the Tritech website www.tritech.co.uk.

After configuration and confirmation of an order, customers be notified the new MKII Altimeter part number as part of the usual sales confirmation process.
