Reason For Retirement:

Following a strategic review of the current product ranges Tritech have decided to withdraw from sale and service, the StarFish range of Sidescan Sonars. Where products have been purchased directly from Tritech we will continue to offer service and repair facility covering the warranty period from the original sale. Customers who did not purchase direct from Tritech should contact their original vendor for technical support, service, repair or warranty issues.

We will continue to offer technical support for units purchased directly from Tritech or it's resellers according to the timetable over the page. For technical support for units purchased outside of Tritech and our partners, customers should contact their original vendor of purchase or OEM.

There are currently no directly equivalent products within the current Tritech range.
